Free Legal Assistance Available to Residents Affected by High Park Fire
Helpline provided by Colorado and Larimer County Bar Associations

DENVER—A toll-free legal helpline for those affected by the High Park fire in Larimer County has been made available by the Colorado and Larimer County Bar Associations.

People with nonemergency, legal questions related to the fire may call 800-332-6736. Callers will leave their information, including name, contact information, and the nature of their legal issue or question, and will be contacted by an attorney within 48 hours to answer questions or to refer them to a legal aid organization.

“We feel it is important to assist our friends in the community and ensure that when tragic events like this arise, we as lawyers can help ease some of the fear and stress surrounding what happens after the fire,” said Larimer County Bar Association President John Duval. “We hope this helpline will be one step in aiding those affected by the fire to rebuild and move on.”

Attorneys will assist with questions related to issues such as property loss, insurance claims, landlord-tenant issues, replacing wills and other important legal documents, and consumer protection matters.

About the Colorado Bar Association

The Colorado Bar Association is a voluntary bar association with more than 18,000 members — almost three-quarters of all attorneys in the state — founded in 1897. The bar provides opportunities for continuing education, volunteering and networking for those in the legal profession while upholding the standards of the bar. The bar likewise works to secure the efficient administration of justice, encourage the adoption of proper legislation and perpetuate the history of the profession and the memory of its members.
