WHAT IS DEDUCTIBLE? Dues to the Colorado Bar Association are not tax deductible as charitable contributions for federal income tax purposes. However, bar dues may be deductible as ordinary and necessary business expenses subject to restrictions imposed as a result of association lobbying activities. In compliance with the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1993, the Colorado Bar Association estimates that the non-deductible portion of your Colorado Bar dues allocable to activities defined by the Internal Revenue Service as lobbying expense is 5 percent. The Denver Bar Association estimates that the non-deductible portion of Denver Bar dues allocable to activities defined by the Internal Revenue Service as lobbying expense is 3 percent. Voluntary contributions to the other entities listed below are deductible as charitable contributions to the extent allowable under the law. Please consult your tax adviser for further guidance as deductibility may depend on individual circumstances.
