

The Colorado Supreme Court Would Like to Recognize Your Commitment to Pro Bono Service

The Colorado Supreme Court takes great pride in recognizing those firms, government, and in-house counsel groups that have committed to the Colorado Rule of Professional Conduct 6.1(a) goal of annually performing 50 hours of pro bono legal services per Colorado licensed attorney, primarily for people of limited means and/or organizations that serve people of limited means.

In addition to listing their names here and on the Court's website, all firms and groups on the Colorado Supreme Court's pro bono commitment list were recognized during a special ceremony on April 18 at the Ralph Carr Judicial Center. Those firms and groups that achieved the goal during the previous calendar year were presented certificates of achievement signed by each member of the Court.

If your firm or group has not already joined the Colorado Supreme Court's pro bono commitment list, please join today. Simply notify Justice Melissa Hart of your commitment, c/o law clerk Angela Vichick at angela.vichick@judicial.state.co.us. Or email Jackie Marro, access to justice coordinator for the State Court Administrator's Office, at jacqueline.marro@judicial.state.co.us.
